Get a free rental! If you purchase the same item that you rented over the holidays, you will be credited the rental towards the purchase! Book ahead to ensure you get what you need!

We have gotten in some great new gear in the Rental Department in recent months such as our Profoto B1 Off Camera Flash, Sony cameras & lenses, Sigma ART series lenses, Tamron 150-600mm lens and the Canon 7DmkII DSLR. Whether you want to go shoot Bald Eagles or a family portrait session we certainly have the gear for you!

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank all of the customers who have rented gear from us this past year – your business is greatly appreciated! I enjoy hearing your stories of stressed brides, fumbling assistants, and that one-in-a-million shot you got, and I hope at least some of you enjoyed my stories as well! I look forward to hearing more in 2015!

...and speaking of stressed brides, if you already have bookings for 2015, you should call or e-mail me to book gear for the summer to avoid being stressed yourself!

In addition, Iridient Digital has a new public beta of their Iridient Developer v3.0 raw processing software and I have to say, what an incredible program it is for working with Fujifilm X-Trans raw files. Not only does it have 8 different X-Trans demosaic options, it has 6 different selectable sharpening algorithms, including the very flexible new "Iridient Reveal" option which renders amazing texture detail and superb micro-contrast, ideal for landscape, architectural or macro photography. It also has 4 different selectable clarity algorithms, much improved highlight and shadow recovery control and the colour I am getting from my X-E2 is truly gorgeous, much better I feel than from Lightroom for example. All in all, using Iridient Developer is a huge step up in image quality over what Adobe's software gives at this point. However I am solidly tied to a Lightroom workflow... but even here, Iridient Developer integrates well. If you have been thinking about a Fujifilm system but you've heard that it's hard to get good results from X-Trans raw files, which is certainly true in some cases if you are only using Adobe software, then feel free to ask me about other raw processing options like Iridient Developer.

We now have Fujifilm's new macro extension tubes in stock! See my review here: <http://beauphoto.blogspot.ca/2014/12/arrived-fujifilm-extension-tubes.html>
Also, see some test shots further along in this newsletter.

Lastly, we should have the superb new XF 50-140mm f/2.8R LM OIS WR zoom in stock when you get this. For a quick preview, see here: <http://beauphoto.blogspot.ca/2014/12/preview-fujifilm-xf-50-140mm-f28r-lm.html>

60mm Macro lens with both extension tubes

The 60mm macro lens was at its closest focus when these images were taken. Below you can see the physical distance between the front lens element and the object. The bear is about 30mm high and the distance between its eyes is 3.5mm. For more info about these extension tubes, see: <http://beauphoto.blogspot.ca/2014/12/arrived-fujifilm-extension-tubes.html>

The 23mm wide angle lens was used for these shots. Wide lenses can be used with extension tubes but the point at which the image is in focus is sometimes too close to the front element of the lens, making extreme close-ups impractical.

Travel Bags

It's the time of year when everyone gets a bit tired of the rainy and gloomy weather, and decides to take off for sunnier shores. Whether that means you're an avid photographer headed off on a vacation or you're lucky enough to book a shoot in a more tropical locale, you will probably need to bring along a variety of gear. There's quite a few different types and sizes of rolling camera bags that fit as carry-on luggage. Think Tank makes a great line of Airport Series rolling bags that meet most regulations to fit as carry-on. Though like any piece of luggage you are best to double check with the specific airline you are flying with just in case. LowePro has a small rolling bag as well that works great for flying and we now have a new Manfrotto rolling bag that is also the perfect size for traveling with!

Think Tank

Think Tank has a whole line of Airport bags that meet domestic carry-on sizes, and some of the smaller ones also meet international carry-on regulations. The Airstream, International and Security are all great, standard style rolling bags, with the Airstream being the smallest, then the International and finally the Security being the largest of Think Tank's Airport bags. The Security will most likely only fit as carry-on on domestic flights and may be too large for international flights.

Airport Airstream Sale - $295.96
Reg. 369.95

Airport International Sale - $341.56
Reg. 426.95

Airport Security Sale - 363.96
Reg. 454.95

There are a few other Think Tank Airport series bags that are unique and excellent for travelling with as well.

The Airport TakeOff is a rolling bag but it also converts to a backpack when needed. If you are going to be traveling in a part of the world that may have different types of terrain or you will be taking many different modes of transport this bag is a great option. It is still a manageable size and holds a lot of gear. Great for the airport and then for hiking when you reach your destination to set up those wonderful nature shots.

Sale - $310.36 Reg. 387.95

The Airport Roller Derby is unique in that it has four wheels instead of two! This makes it very maneuverable amongst crowds and easy on the back to pull along beside you. It rolls so well you'll think it has a mind of its own! Its inner size is very similar to that of the Airport International, but its wheels are a bit larger and on swivels that allow it to go in all directions, making it slightly taller than the International.

Sale - 351.16 Reg. 438.95

The Airport Navigator is a different type of rolling bag altogether. I really love the shape of this bag and how it has a different configuration from any other rolling bag I've seen. It isn't very tall, but it opens mainly from the top, allowing for quick access of gear. However, it also opens from the front so that you can organize your gear easily and get access to the non-essential gear at the bottom of the bag. It has two ties to hold the front flap up so that you can open it just a little bit and the front won't fall to the ground, or you can take the ties off so you can lay the bag flat and get at your gear like a normal rolling case. I think this bag would be a great set up for a small lighting kit because of its top loading drop in feature.

Sale - $256.76
Reg. 320.95

LowePro

We currently carry two great rolling LowePro bags, the Pro Roller 100 AW & 200 AW. These bags are perfect, standard rolling bags, which LowePro has upgraded from their previous versions to the All Weather (AW) which include the all-weather covers. The 200 is a fairly large size and would likely not fit on most international flights, the 100 is more compact and should fit nicely on all flights. The great part about both sizes of the Pro Roller is that they are really two bags in one. They have an inner backpack that can be removed from the hard shell of the rolling bag to become a second bag all together. The backpack holds onto all the padded dividers leaving the outer shell as a functioning regular rolling suitcase (no padding.) You can wear the backpack and roll the suitcase or if necessary, the backpack slides over the extended handle of the roller bag and sits nicely on top. These bags are very reasonably priced as well.

Pro Roller 100 AW Sale - $247.97 Reg. 309.96

Pro Roller 200 AW Sale - $278.97 Reg. 348.71

Manfrotto

The Manfrotto line of bags is fairly new to us, but I really like the different style of them. Their backpacks are unique and well thought out, as is the rolling bag that we carry. We are trying out a few of their bags currently, but we can certainly order in others if there is one you are interested in!

The only Manfrotto rolling bag we have currently is the Pro Roller 50. It is a very nicely designed rolling bag that will fit all your carry-on needs. I really love the sleek design of the Manfrotto bags with their hints of red. Inside, this bag has some of the nicest padded dividers of all the bags, making sure that your gear will stay safe and secure. It is also a slightly deeper bag which is great for bigger camera bodies. I also really love how this bag opens and has two ties to keep the lid flap from falling onto the ground.

About Neutral Density (ND) Filters

ND filters are commonly used on a lens to reduce the amount of light reaching the sensor. This allows the photographer to use a wider aperture or slower shutter speed than would normally be possible in bright light conditions. The effects that can be achieved using this technique include:

- Blurring movement in clouds, waterfalls, rivers or oceans,
- Reducing depth of field in very bright light
- Reduce the visibility of moving objects such as people and cars on a busy street.

Formatt Hitech has developed a 16 stop neutral density filter for long-exposure photography. This super dark filter features an infrared blocking layer which helps avoid a colour shift when shooting, as well as a 15 layer multicoated process applied directly to the glass, which, according to Formatt Hitech, avoids flare, increases contrast and visual acuity in challenging lighting conditions.

These lenses add a whole different level of creativity to instant photography! The stock lens is a wide angle, the additional lenses are a close up, portrait and fisheye!

New from Adox

We now carry five sheet 8x10 sample packs of Adox MCC112 Premium Fibre Based Photo Paper Semi Matt and Adox MCC110 Premium Fibre Based Photo Paper Glossy for those of you who are into experimenting in the darkroom!

Also new to the film department is Adox's Glossy Art Baryta paper in sample packs. This paper is unusual because it feels like glossy fibre based paper due to the baryta layer, but it hasn't been coated with a light sensitive emulsion. It is made to be hand coated with photographic emulsions or alternative processes. Watch for a review of this paper and some samples - coming soon!

Larger sizes and quantity of any of these Adox products will be available by special order.

Older but Good! Expired Film Sale

Expired Rollei Digibase CR200 35mm Slide Film & Expired Rollei Digibase CN200 120 Colour Negative Film.

We have a great deal on these expired films right now. We have very limited stock of these films, so get some while they last! It is called "Dibase", as it is supposed to be very good for scanning, and from what I've seen it does scan very nicely. Both films tend to have a fairly warm tone to them and can be a bit on the grainy side, but definitely have a distinctive look of their own that is very appealing. Of course you never can be quite sure what expired film will give you, but that is half the fun! Certainly worth trying out at this price! Creative colours await you.

PRESENTATION HOUSE GALLERY

Lee Friedlander: Thick Of Things

Opening Reception; November 28, 7 pm

Presentation House Gallery is delighted to announce an exhibition of photographs and books by one of the most important photographers of our time, Lee Friedlander. A first in Canada, Thick of Things spans over five decades of his work and attests to the undiminished vitality of his unique way of seeing. Friedlander has been called one of the most prolific artists in the history of photography. His observations refresh the genres of landscape, portraiture and still life through series that extend over many years. This exhibition highlights several bodies of work including rarely-seen images taken in the Canadian Rockies as well as his books and magazine works.
